Editor's note: — In reference to the above drawing and as a journal operator in Coleman, The Journal feels the cartoon is in poor taste. We defend our statement with the fact, the C.N.P. is an area which must display strength and unity at all times in order to progress orderly and with success.

Over long years and experience we have found communication can result in a compromise, but when one community prejudices another the result can be detrimental to all concerned. This is still a free country where the people have a right to freedom of choice and thought as well as the representatives they elect, the latter responsible for the public purse strings.

It is to be hoped the above cartoon will be accepted as an error of judgement by the artists as well as the written word by the authors. We can assure everyone that prejudices will not result in us to the Pass pool committee (a sub-committee of the Rec. Board). Also support from a wonderful organization such as, Coleman Lion's Club, $3,500, contributions from the Coleman Collieries, $18,000.00 pledged in the next 4 years; Canadian Western Gas, $360.00; donations from different organizations, private citizens and bricks, purchased by businesses in Coleman, as well as adults, students and children who participated in the Walkathon.

The Editor,
Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

Re: The cartoon in the Pass Herald, April 12, 1972, showing the dust from the Coleman Collieries Tumble being responsible for the closing of some stores in Coleman, also "Welcome to Coleman, NO PARTICIPATION," all we can say is, how can one hope for anything but dissent from people who are not given a chance to be heard?

In all fairness, do you think this is the way to give thanks after marvelous support received from the Coleman Collieries, $18,000.00 to the Pass pool committee (a sub-committee of the Rec. Board). Also support from a wonderful organization such as, Coleman Lion's Club, $3,500, contributions from the Coleman Collieries, $18,000.00 pledged in the next 4 years; Canadian Western Gas, $360.00; donations from different organizations, private citizens and bricks, purchased by businesses in Coleman, as well as adults, students and children who participated in the Walkathon.

Where do you get "No Participation" with figures like that? "What do citizens of the other areas think? Do you think that you, too, will receive any better consideration than Coleman did?" The recreation director in his news, April 12, composed a list of "what he no longer will be doing for the Town of Coleman." On the other of "I will no longer be doing was playground program."

If you were so concerned about the playground program, why was it, when you (as a regional recreation director of the C.N.P.) applied for a recreation grant of $30,000 this year and used the entire amount for one project in one town? Why did you not consider other areas in the Pass such as, a playground in Bellevue, Maple Leaf, Burmis, Frank, Hillcrest, Summit Lime Works, East Coleman, Willow Drive, Carbondale and Graftonville.

You are asking the I.D. 5 district for $7,000.00 as their contribution for this year and they have already contributed $43,240.00 toward the pool, (refer to quote from Leithbridge Herald), so why don't you be fair to the people in those areas? (They are part of the C.N.P. you know).

Why didn't you spend even a small sum such as $1,000 of your $30,000 grant in each one of these areas, then it would have shown you were offering recreation for the whole of the C.N.P.

But no, it is already put in the pool fund one project in one town. See LETTER — Page Four

ENTRY FROM CROWNEST PASS AREA ENTERS AJHL

RED DEER — An entry from the Crownest Pass area of south-western Alberta has been officially accepted as a new member of the Alberta Junior Hockey League, it was announced last week.

Three Slide Deaths Ruled Accidental

SPARWOOD, B.C. — A coroner's jury ruled today that the deaths of three brothers in a mudslide March 20 in the Crownest Pass near the British Columbia-Alberta border in southeastern B.C. were accidental and the slide was caused by adverse weather conditions and excessive moisture.

Killed in the slide were 40-year-old Luigi Marra, Serafino Marra, 36, and 34-year-old Emilio Marra, all of Blairmore, Alta.

They were with two other men employed in clearing mud from the CP Rail tracks which had been sliding over the tracks since the previous day.

The five men had finished lunch and one of them, equipment operator Don Slavens of Fernie, went to check his equipment. The other four remained on the tracks when a massive mudslide came down.

The three brothers were buried. Matushi Ogusaka was pushed to one side and later freed himself. The jury recommended CP Rail have a supervisor on the job at times when heavy equipment is required to clear tracks. It also recommended CP Rail check with owners and experts when working on track clearance in the vicinity of open pit mines.

Besides the immediate personal and family problems that brings people to the Preventive Social Service office for counselling help, quite often there is a related problem which can be best described as an inability to deal with their feelings. Sometimes because they have suppressed their feelings for such a long time they are hardly aware of how they really feel about anything. They spend a great deal of energy in behaving as they think they should behave while denying feelings that are telling them that the image that they are trying to live up to really isn't them. It is no wonder that this kind of conflict plays havoc with the nerves.

Of course, if you start listening to your feelings and acting on the basis of them there are a lot of people who are going to put you down and tell you that your behaviour is not appropriate. And if you listen to them something like aggressiveness, which is 'fired off' frustration, resentment, justified anger or hatred, instead of being expressed and enjoying release is stored away in some dark corner of the persons being.

Our society tends to frown on displays of strong feelings by people, contending that they are bad manners or childish outbursts. We say that such a person is behaving like an animal, that he is frustrated, upset, and that they should grow up; that they should learn to control their emotions. But it is interesting to notice how children deal with an emotion like anger. They may howl and stomp with disappointment, but they succeed in getting the emotion out of their system and bounce back quickly. It is only sternly self-controlled adults who have no successful way of handling our strong feelings. Instead, we stoically lock them away inside of us, forming ulcers and other ailments around them.

It appears then that there are two ways that we can deal with our emotions: one a healthy way the other unhealthy, one leading to our growth as a person — the other entrenching us in a rut. But the choice is up to the individual. There are a lot of people who will give you suggestions, but the choice and decision about what you are going to do with your emotions is strictly yours.

Marriage Course
The marriage course sponsored by Preventive Social Service continues this Sunday with the second session in the seven week course. This course which highlights each week various aspects of marriage, is being held in the board room of the Crownest Pass at Lakelse afternoon from 3:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The course is open to those entering a marriage and those already married who wish to enrich their relationship. The registration fee is $5.00. For further information phone Preventive Social Service office at 559-2331.

Calgary Power Ltd. Reports Increase
CALGARY — Calgary Power Ltd. reported a 9.7% increase in growth during 1971, from $360,000,000 in 1970 to $393,000,000 in 1971. This is an increase of 9.7%. Earnings per common share increased to $2.18 from $1.97 in 1970.

Capital expenditures for 1971 amounted to $1,165,000,000. Most of this was channelled to the company's latest projects, Suncor Steam Electric Plant and The Elginburg Storage and Power Development.

Net income in 1971 was $12,000,000, an increase of $1,165,000,000. The company declared a dividend of $1.00 on common shares, retaining $1.00 per share for use in the future.

Students Participate In Model United Nations

Seven students from the Crownest Consolidated High School spent the early part of their Easter holidays in Leithbridge at the 9th annual Model United Nations assembly.

The students and their countries represented included: Cheryl Markosky and John Kulig, Spain; Debbie Ritchie, Israel; Kellie Paul, Sweden; Michele Girardi, Greece; Darcy Peknik, Czechoslovakia; and Darlene Yeliga, India. Mrs. J. Rejman, staff advisor, was leader of the African Bloc of Nations.

Three resolutions were discussed at the assembly. The first resolution dealt with restricting the use of nuclear devices for underground explosions. The second resolution was concerned with the threat of marine pollution to all nations.

The final topic of debate which was very lengthy and opinionated and upon which no agreement was reached was the bondage of Namibia, Angola and Mozambique and the discriminatory action practiced in this part of Africa. It was the general consensus of the delegates that the countries should be released but the major difficulty was deciding on the cause of action to be taken by the U.N.

Mayor Holyk reported on an oil-painting of the Crownest Mountain and Alliston Creek by Mr. Harold Pownall, which was purchased and presented to "Miss Dominion of Canada," Lana Drouillard of Windsor, Ont., when she attended the ice carnival in Coleman March 26. The inscription read, that it was from the Town of Coleman, on behalf of the citizens of the C.N.P.

Mr. Ted Nicholson of the Old Man River Planning Commission made changes on the plans of the new subdivision, and these were approved, so now the surveyors, Brown and Okumura will be contacted to begin surveying the lots so they will be available soon. The plans of the proposed lots will be on display at the town office and anyone is welcome to view them.

A special meeting was scheduled for April 16 at which time council dealt with the finalizing of the budget.

Re the J. Howarth property, a letter was received from the public trustees informing their bid was not accepted.

Permission was given to have a trailer located on two lots in west Coleman.

The controversy sparked by the Village Lake Louise proposal is one of the hottest in the Alberta scene in recent years.

Since the development, if proceeded with, will be in Rocky Mountain riding, many people have asked what my personal opinion is on the matter.

Most people appear to have a very definite attitude on the proposal. They are either entirely for it or entirely against it. I must admit that this being the case, I am probably in the minority, because I have not reached a judgment on the issue. There are aspects of the proposal which I find attractive, but also many which do not appeal to me.

HOW TO PLANT A COMPANION GARDEN (Part 2)

Andy Laroche

Add to a good program of companionable vegetables a number of aromatic herbs flowers and even weeds, and your garden will minimize the mixed crop.

"The presence of companion herbs is thought to improve the growth and flavor of the vegetables and also to deter garden pests." Catnip, they say, deters flea beetles, mint drives away the white cabbage butterfly, garlic can turn away the Japanese beetle and so on.

Let's look at yarrow. Here's a herb steeped in lore as well as hot water by those who know the break light tea made from its leaves. The Chinese mystic says yarrow increases the aromatic quality of all herbs — and it's the aromatic essential oils that deter insects. Yarrow is thus the herb's herb.

Yarrow has a definite effect on the quality of neighboring plants," says the Bio-Dynamic book. "Companion plants," increasing not so much their resistance to adverse conditions and thereby improving their health, and resistance to insects too.

A wide variety of herbs belong in every organic garden. It's only been since the renaissance that flower herb and vegetable gardens have been generally separated. Before that, everything grew well.

As to the value of weeds in the garden, there are theories and there are theories. The most common is the weeds rob the soil of nutrients need-by the crops, and so the garden soil either remains bare between rows or is covered with mulch. But the Indians never grew crops that way. They believed that weeds were part of the picture and should be allowed to grow with the vegetables to some extent.

A garden overrun with weeds is no garden at all, but the wise use of weeds can prove invaluable. Weeds can pump subterranean minerals and nutrients to the surface. They can act as a ground cover and green mulch. Their roots open up areas of the subsoil most vegetables can't penetrate. One woman showed me some Bermuda onions she had harvested from a picture of perfection. "Every onion was for several weeks this way."

Tip of the Week

When I go on vacation, I let the large plastic plant bags from the cleaner tend my plants while I'm away. I set plants near windows on snack tables, then carefully turn the bag down over them as far as possible without disturbing plants. To hold bags up, I pin them to the curtains. African violets have stayed alive and well for several weeks this way.

OORP Hold District Meeting

Skinner - Arcand Vows Exchanged

On Saturday, April 15, 1972, wedding vows were exchanged between Shirley Skinner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Skinner of Coleman and Mrs. F. Arcand of Coleman in the Holy Spirit Church, with Father Denis McDonald officiating.

The bride looked lovely in a long white gown and was escorted down the aisle by her father. Her gown was of white pead-de sol with short puffed sleeves and a train. The veil was shoulder length and held in place with a crown of seed pearls, and her bouquet consisted of red roses and white carnations.

The bride's only attendant, Eleanor Tuckwood donned a pretty yellow gown, and wore a tiara in her hair.

A very delicious supper catered to by the Coleman C.W.L. ladies followed in the Catholic Hall. Dancing followed, with Pate Meronnik's orchestra in attendance.

Shirley and Eddy will reside in Coleman.

I. W. A. Demands and Competition

Labour negotiations are a tricky business these days. Union negotiators, not to mention the rank and file, can read economic statistics as well as anyone else. And they know that it is becoming increasingly difficult for the average fellow to keep ahead of the rising costs of living. Consequently when contract time rolls around, the unions are there to see that they get the best possible deal in a new contract.

This year the I.W.A. has asked for a new contract which the forest industry companies say will cost $150 million dollars. They say that cost, $150 million, is more than the total profit last year of all the logging operations in British Columbia.

If the I.W.A. stands by its 'demands' for this new contract, it would appear that observers who are predicting an impasse in contract negotiations this year will be proven correct. It is almost inconceivable that any industry will settle for a contract which will wipe out virtually all of its profitability.

The I.W.A. position seems even more difficult to accept when its contract demands are compared with the contract now being negotiated in Washington State. In British Columbia, the I.W.A. is asking for an across the board increase of $1.00 per hour. In Washington State, the across the board increase being sought is half that amount — $0.50 per hour. This would seem to be quite different from the days when the I.W.A. was seeking parity with its brothers in Washington State. British Columbia forestry workers even if they compromise their demands will be receiving more in salary and fringe benefits than their brothers in Washington State.

We think that it is up to the companies and the union to bargain out their differences. Collective bargaining between employer and employee is the corner stone of our free enterprise system. However we wonder if the I.W.A. demands are within the bounds of reason.

To begin with, if the I.W.A. gets what it wants, there will, say the companies, be no profitability in logging. Going beyond that, if the companies have to settle for these demands, we wonder who they will sell their logs to.

Unlike consumer oriented business, the forest industry cannot pass on higher costs to the consumer. By contrast, if the food processing industry has to settle for a new union contract which decreases profitability, the industry simply passes the costs on to the consumer. Food prices go up. Some people call this inflation, but at least, life goes on.

In the forest industry, there is nobody to pass the higher costs onto. Once prices for logs get so high, the buyers, around the world simply go somewhere else to buy their logs. Unlike our example of the food industry, which is a localized market, the forest industry competes in an international market. If log prices get too high for the buyer he goes somewhere else. If British Columbia prices are too high, the buyer can go to Washington or Oregon.

And where does this leave us in British Columbia? Not very well. It is one thing to say that the unions deserve a fair shake in maintaining and improving their standard of living. This is proper and right. But when union demands are sufficiently excessive to price the product right out of the market, they just don't make sense. What good does it do for the unions to get what they want if it will mean that nobody will want to buy the trees which they log. It is very nice to say the I.W.A. got the settlement it wants but if that settlement means no one will want to buy B.C. logs, what good is it? If no one buys B.C. logs, or buys less B.C. logs, that will mean a lessening demand for jobs and a shrinking of the B.C. industry — not because our product is of an inferior quality but because price wise, we can't compete. This is a gloomy situation.

It is time the I.W.A. took a realistic look at its 'demands.' At a time when international markets are more competitive than ever before; at a time when several regions, especially the northwestern United States can operate at a lower cost than British Columbia; it is time for some frank evaluation of our problems. They are serious. $50 of every dollar earned in British Columbia is ultimately derived from the forest industry. It would be a serious blow to our economy and our province if our major industry can no longer remain competitive.

GOOD MUSIC . . . BETTER DRUGS

He was just like any other male on the floor — except he offered drugs.

Some refused his offer. But how many youngsters didn't? The occasion was the big spring boogie featuring Taj Mahal and Sunshine at the Cominco Arena Saturday. The music was good, the night show even better.

And the "drugs the best," an unidentified youngster said. Hash, grass and wine were prevalent among the crowd of more than 1,000 that really dug the entertainment offered. Dressed casually, he walked around the perimeter of the arena twice and circulated among the crowd. Just a face among a thousand others.

He stopped at little groups sitting against the walls of the ice surface and waved a palm of pills. How many bought his offer is difficult to estimate.

No exchange of money was seen. Time dragged on during the evening.

When RCMP entered the building, for the second time during the evening, they were told of the situation.

Both the RCMP and others witnessed him going from group to group. The officers followed him and saw him buy a handful of gum and candies at the confectionery.

He returned to the floor and continued to circulate. He distributed gum and caramels to a group.

Later, a Trail youngster said high-grade MDA (from Vancouver) was being pushed.

MDA is classed as one of the most common drugs along with alcohol, patent medicines, marijuana and LSD. MDA or methyl endi oxyamphetamine is classified as a hallucinogenic drug.

What was really being offered? Candy? Or drugs? Corporal Dick Barnes, Trail RCMP, estimates more than 30 per cent of junior high school students here have experimented with illegal drugs.

The figure climbs to the 50 per cent mark at J. Lloyd Crowe senior secondary school, he says.

Experimentation can involve the smoking of just one or two marijuana cigarettes. Marijuana joints were plentiful at the boogie. Hashish was also available.

Both are prevalent in the area and some is grown locally. A patch has been grown near Bear Creek and a few plants have been found in West Trail, Cpl. Barnes says.

"Children experimenting with drugs are doing the same thing we did with booze when we were young," the corporal says.

Missing from many homes today are strong family ties and love, he says.

"Maybe the best way of attacking the drug problem is by listening to your children and giving them a chance to express themselves," Cpl. Barnes says.

Nuptial Shower Held For Geraldine Gibos

On Monday, April 17, a very lovely shower was held in honour of Miss Geraldine Gibos, who will become the bride of Mr. Kenton Lord of Calgary.

Upon entering the hall, a corsage of white roses was pinned on the bride-elect by Miss Marilyn Elbert. Mrs. Julie Lant, pinned the corsage on Mrs. Anne Gibos. Mrs. Olive Dingerville, pinned the corsage on Mrs. Joan Lord and Mrs. Jean Maschio pinned the corsage on Mrs. Gina Lord.

Games of whist and bingo were played. First whist prize was won by Mrs. Marge Schultz; second whist was won by Mrs. Ann Dick; consolation was won by Mrs. Ethel Hill. Miss Jenny Sokol won the door prize.

The hostesses served a lovely lunch, after which the bride was presented with many lovely gifts. They consisted a vacuum cleaner, TV tables, car roof rack, sheets and pillow cases, waffle iron, alarm clock, bowls, ironing board and a basket filled with many useful kitchen utensils. The hostesses presented her with a woodgrain canister set, bread box and garbage can.

She thanked all those who came, and those who donated and could not attend, and a special thanks went to the hostesses for making the evening such a memorable occasion.

Geraldine will be married on May 6 in the Holy Spirit Catholic Church, Coleman.

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED By Eleanor Blair

April is a month to walk through. There is nothing more refreshing than a walk in the woods about this time of year, now that growing things are forcing their pale green shoots through the leaf mould of last autumn, undaunted by the occasional late snowfall.

The gentleness of these springtime discoveries does much to ease the combat fatigue of winter. Perhaps one is subconsciously hopeful about beginning to grow again. Nature does it every year, and nature, sometimes replaces the memories of the past with growth of great beauty, as with the tall pine freeweed that grows in such profusion over the scars of burnt-over land.

Walking the other day I found all sorts of small undetectable plants and green bushes, and the light buds of the Balm of Gilead which a little later on will swell so purely and pungently of spring. The Balm of Gilead leaves unfold with a red syrupy substance that little boys playing Indians and cowboys used to paint their faces with — like war paint or blood — and then run home to supper with it still on their faces. Many a major maternal crisis was caused this way.

There were mounds of hazel nut shells from squirrels' winter caches, on logs and stumps, and the squirrels themselves, and birds, but apart from them the only live thing I saw was a man in the caboose of a freight train travelling east. He waved to me as train meekly always do, and I waved back, and kept on waving in the long forgotten way of childhood, until the caboose vanished in the distance leaving the twin ribbons of winding tracks glistening in the light rain that had started to fall. There is something very lonely about a railroad track in the bush country after a train has just gone through.

The sky darkened and the rain turned to snow, with big flakes falling densely. And such are the changes of April, the tranquil woodland trail was transformed into a threatening stretch of wilderness. The snow kept coming and I headed home. As I tramped through the mild weather it occurred to me that all those poets who write about April's 'soft rains of rain' and so on, should also write some verses about April's large marsh-mallow sized flakes of snow.

Horoscope THIS IS YOUR LIFE

By TRENT VARRO

DON'T PAY TO HAVE YOUR HOROSCOPE READ — READ IT HERE !!!

ARIES—March 21 to April 19
Your keynote for the coming week will be 'variety.' Keeping mentally alert, while enjoying yourself will bring much gain. There are some excellent openings now, for getting what you want.

TAURUS—April 21 to May 20
Don't divulge confidential information. Keep your mind centered on the good results that can be obtained through diligence and hard work. You'll find it pays handsomely.

GEMINI—May 21 to June 20
Avoid malicious gossip and you'll stay out of trouble. The urge may be great to 'run down' someone you don't particularly care for, and you bring great benefit to yourself by keeping silent.

CANCER—June 21 to July 21
If you are able to get away from the hum-drum 'drive' of daily work. Seek interesting experiences. A short trip might prove most enlightening and work out well for business matters.

LEO—July 22 to August 21
It has been said that a good way to double your money is to take a bill from your pocket, fold it in half, and put it back in another pocket. Thank this over carefully! Good luck is coming, but WAIT!

VIRGO—August 22 to Sept. 21
Scientific discoveries and everything in the field of education are very strongly highlighted for the coming week. You may get the 'answer' to some very perplexing problem that will be of great benefit.

LIBRA—Sept. 22 to Oct. 22
Aim for co-operation with business associates, not dissension. Mental pursuits and creative abilities are under good aspect. Don't jump around from 'pillar to post.'

SCORPIO—Oct. 23 to Nov. 21
Social activities may be taking up a large part of your time right now. This is all right, but don't let them take up TOO much time! Business matters are important also.

SAGITTARIUS—Nov. 22 to Dec. 20
'Past experiences' are very much in the limelight for Sagittarius at this time. You've gained a lot of wisdom in the past, no matter what your age is. Use this knowledge wisely.

CAPRICORN—Dec. 21 to Jan. 19
Some changes in financial dealings may be necessary during the next week or so. Double-check everything having to do with money. This period is not 'bad' but it would pay you to be careful!

AQUARIUS—Jan. 20 to Feb. 18
Some form of 'specialized knowledge' that you acquired years ago, could help you to make great strides forward at this time. People may ask you questions. Be firm, but courteous in your answers.

PISCES—Feb. 19 to Mar. 20
As we stated last week, Pisces individuals are definitely 'over the hump.' This holds true for virtually every person born in this sign, no matter what your individual horoscope may indicate!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

When the delegation came to a recreation board meeting February 22 and they inquired if the cost of the pool fund, — one project in town!

When the delegation came to a recreation board meeting February 22, and they inquired if the cost of the pool would be $100,000, the chairman confirmed this. Why was it, in previous news releases, the figure quoted $154,000?

Why is it when you are spending $100,000 of the public's money that there were "no tenders" advertised for the construction of the pool?

Is this proper procedure from one who states she is a professional person? Why didn't you give the pass contractors an opportunity to place their bids? (The money was donated from the Pass).

Why don't you inform the public of how their money is spent? There hasn't been any financial statements published in this regard. The public is entitled to an itemized account of revenues and expenditures of the Pass Pool Committee, because this is a subcommittee and responsible to the recreation board.

The director, by issuing a public statement that she will no longer be giving services to the Town of Coleman, seems to us she is terminating her job as a recreational director for the Pass. If this is the case, then we can always hire a director who will work for the town.

Referring again to "NO PARTICIPATION", what about the Pass ambulance? Didn't we participate?

And the same goes for the C.N.P. Consolidated High School, the C.N.P. hospital and the senior citizens nursing home complex — but who was it that didn't participate in getting CFUN-TV?

We have a Berlin Wall and a China Wall and it looks like a wall is being erected with hands passing $'s & $'s bills over one side, and the receiving side curtailing services to the same people who PARTICIPATED with their donations.

We draw your attention to an article in 1971 high school year book, page 4. For those who did not have one of these books, we will quote: "Our School" by Dennis Macal.

The moment the thought of a united high school in the Pass came about problems began. The first problem was, of course, the site of the school. The people wanted it built where they lived and go where else.

Coleman people wanted it in Coleman, Blairmore people wanted it in Blairmore and the Third World War was about to "kick off." It was finally decided that because of beautiful scenery, the school should be built just east of Coleman.

Naturally we didn't see the scenery because there are no windows in the place. The wind blows constantly, sixty miles per hour on a calm day (God help us when a storm comes along) and since it's a west wind, it brings tons of coal dust from Coleman, the "cleans" town in the Pass.

The same attitude was inflicted on our students in the C.N.P. high school. End of quote: "May we remind you that Coleman contributes to the upkeep and operating of the schools in the Pass."

Why was such an article permitted?

Re: PARTICIPATION. Do you want our arena RENT FREE again, for another beer garden? Aren't you afraid of coal dust pollution in your beer, or doesn't that matter as long as you grab more $'s & $'s?

Please remember, "These so called polluting industries are the blood of the economy of ALL of the Pass area."

At this time, we thank you for the space given.

—Signed by a group of concerned Coleman Citizens

Signed — Edna Campbell, Quote from Lethbridge Herald, Oct. 25, 1971

Blairmore - Pass words: The Pass pool project committee has advised that a further $5,985 is required to realize the full cost of $154,000 needed to build the swim pool.

The finance committee indicates $43,240 from I.D. $; $1,880 from the Village of Frank; and $25,380 from Blairmore.

The government assistance grant totals $22,815; Coleman Collieries grant $18,000 and funds raised to date $38,000 for a grand total of $140,014.00.

The Editor, Coleman Journal, Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

I would appreciate your passing on to your readers a simple request. It concerns photographs of dust storms.

The spectacular dust storms of the thirties were a frightening sight, yet we have very few pictures of them.

Our Social Science Department at the University are of course concerned with soil conservation and would like to have some more pictures of "dusters" or "black blizzards" to show them.

I wonder if any of your readers could help. If they could mail any negative, prints or coloured slides to me so that I could make copies I would be very grateful. The pictures would be returned.

Yours truly, J. A. Toogood, Chairman, Social Science Department, University of Alberta.

The Editor, Coleman Journal, Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

At the 1972 annual meeting of the Council of the Alberta — N.W.T. Division of The Canadian Red Cross Society, it was the unanimous opinion of the delegates that we express to you and your associates their grateful thanks for your continued co-operation in supporting the work of our Society.

It is therefore with much pleasure that we express our gratitude for all that you have done and it is our hope that we may continue to enjoy your confidence and support.
